Read the passages and answer the questions (1-8) that follow:

The hippopotamus is the third largest land animal, smaller only than the elephant and the rhinoceros. Its name comes from two Greek words, which mean "river horse." The long name of this animal is often shortened to the easier to handle term "hippo." The hippo has a natural affinity for water. It does not float on top of the water; instead, it can easily walk along the bottom of a body of water. The hippo commonly remains underwater for three to five minutes and has been known to stay under for up to half an hour before coming up for air.

In spite of its name, the hippo has relatively little in common with the horse and instead has a number of interesting similarities in common with the whale. When a hippo comes up after a stay at the bottom of a lake or river, it releases air through a blowhole, just like a whale. In addition, the hippo resembles the whale in that they both have thick layers of blubber for protection and they are almost completely hairless.

- How many animals are bigger than the hippopotamus?
A) 2 B) 3 C) 1 D) 0
- Another word for 'affinity' is
A) Hatred B) Liking C) Relationship D) Enmity
- The whale releases water through a

- The hippo can stay under the water continuously for
A) 10 minutes B) 20 minutes C) 30 minutes D) 15 minutes

Why do we lose temper? If man could answer this question, half the troubles in the world would be over. There would be no wars, no riots, no 'honor killings', no lynching, fewer court cases and very little hypertension all around. Does not it already sound like a better world?

The next time you get angry, once the sickness is over, sit down and introspect. I call it a 'sickness' because this is exactly what it is. Take your pulse rate immediately after the temper tantrum. Observe your breathing. Check the amount of perspiration on your brow. Think of the language you used. Look at your face in the mirror. Think back to how the other people around you reacted to your outburst.

It is not bad to feel anger. Gandhi felt anger and outrage, became a messiah of freedom. Mandela felt angry and fought for equality. Guru Gobind Singh channelized his anger and created a brave warrior race. Feeling angry is responsible for creating many good things in this world. Fleming hunted for penicillin when he got angry at sickness. The point at issue is the expression of anger. Why waste your energies on futile outbursts? If you really, really feel outraged at something, do something concrete so that the outrage does not take place again. But, abusing your colleague or beating up a neighbor is self-defeating.

Above all, the moment you 'lose it' because of someone, you pay those people the supreme compliment that you are happy to waste time, energy, health and mental space on them! Anger belongs to the family of all negative emotions like hatred, jealousy, anxiety, worry and suspicion; these emotions make sure that no positive element lives on in yourself.
